*It's Easy to Stay Young ELECTRICALLY!

Time has proved this is far more than a catch phrase. It is a national rallying cry taken up by hundreds of thousands of women! It is a phrase you can use, with all sincerity, in all-selling of electrical appliances. And we suggest you use it to the full!

IT'S AN OLD G-E CUSTOM!

Look well at these four new G-E appliances. They're more than an iron, roaster, coffee maker and mixer. They're added sales opportunities for you—a chance to attract new customers and establish in their minds that yours is a wide-awake, alert store. They mean an opportunity for you to approach old customers with a new interest. And, needless to say, they can mean a very pleasant profit.

It's an old G-E custom . . . this constant research, and developing of new appliances that you can show to advantage. It's one of the reasons why General Electric has become the world's largest maker of electrical appliances. And one of the reasons why dealers want to go "G-E all the way." We hope you'll ask your distributor's salesman to tell you about the new ideas in electrical living that General Electric is developing, and talk over with him the many advantages of carrying the General Electric full line.

SILVER LAKE GOLDEN WEATHER-PROOFED SASH CORD

This new Weather-proofed Cord has been added to the popular Silver Lake line. It is protected against the weather by our special process which "seals" out moisture from the air and protects the cord as paint protects wood.

Besides being Weather-proofed, this special process makes the cord more flexible and easier running. Easily cleaned with a damp cloth.

Note the simple test here illustrated. It proves the ability of Silver Lake to resist moisture absorption.

The HARDWARE AGE PLATFORM

HARDWARE AGE Believes:—

1—With proper cost control, distribution from manufacturer-to-wholesaler-to-retailer will continue the economical and practical method for merchandising most hardware lines.

2—Retailers should focus their effort and thinking more on selling than on buying, and should concentrate their buying in the fewest possible sources of supply. Sales opportunities should govern purchases.

3—The wholesaler function cannot be eliminated, though distribution costs could and should be reduced. Cooperative buying transfers but does not eliminate the jobbing function and its costs. In most cases, cooperative groups could work successfully with existing wholesaler machinery, if all factors observe rigidly the conditions required in a cooperative group. A compromise may be the further development of jobber owned retail stores or dealer owned jobbing plants.

4—Price competition will always be a vital factor in retailing, but permanent success demands a new appreciation of quality merchandise. Added costs that do not carry with them added value to the consumer should be eliminated. Manufacturers' suggested resale prices should provide adequate margins for both wholesaler and retailer, giving full consideration to required stock investment and to frequency of turnover. Manufacturers who aim to distribute mainly through hardware channels should avoid price discrimination in favor of chain store and mail order companies. If they furnish such outlets with competitive grade products at special prices they should offer their regular distributors the same goods on the same basis.

5—The basic problems of retail hardware dealers are: to get more people into their stores; to provide a store in which service, variety of goods and values encourage patronage; to facilitate second or extra sales by grouping related merchandise together; to promote aggressively the sale of more higher price units to offset the narrow margins of many small sales which are inseparable from hardware retailing, and to develop outside selling.

6—Hardware dealers should promote the sale of all related specialties which have a profitable market, but not to the detriment of standard backbone lines such as tools, builders' hardware, housefurnishings, paints, etc. With proper balance of effort and thinking specialties should help sell staples and vice versa.

7—The hardware store should resume the mechanical services which formerly centered there: tinsmith and sheet metal shopwork, sharpening scissors, skates, lawn mowers and edge tools; making keys, fixing locks, putting in window glass, miscellaneous simple repairs, etc. Such services are profitable and attract customers.

8—A few strictly cash-and-carry retail hardware stores can succeed. For the majority of stores, a sane credit and instalment selling basis is desirable. American consumers expect such extra service plus deliveries, particularly when they buy higher value units.

9—Window and interior displays should include visible, value-creating price cards, and a higher standard of lighting. Window displays and interior lay-outs (particularly table displays) call for frequent change.

10—Hardware merchants should give more attention to selecting and training sales personnel. This means regular store meetings and constant use of helps offered by business papers, trade associations and traveling salesmen. Experienced employees should share authority and responsibility.

11—Merchants and employees should adapt all useful methods practised by chain stores, mail order houses and other competitors.

With full confidence in the future of the hardware business, HARDWARE AGE dedicates its editorial efforts to the principles embodied in these eleven points.

The above table shows "Each" equivalents for "Dozen" prices, and separately, the dozen equivalents of different fractions. To determine the price of twelve articles that cost  $5\frac{1}{12}$ c. each, simply add 60c., which is the dozen equivalent of 5c. and 1c., which is the dozen equivalent of  $\frac{1}{12}$ . By memorizing the fractional dozen equivalents, this table may be used very quickly and conveniently.

A Glossary of Arms and Ammunition Terms

to help you answer questions your hunter-customers will ask

THERE are probably more technical terms connected with guns and ammunition than with any other line sold in the hardware store. Many salesmen will talk fluently about a gun and demonstrate its special features and yet have a somewhat vague idea of the real meaning of many of the terms that they talk about so easily.

For the benefit of the salesmen who are handling guns and ammunition this fall here is an "ask me another" on terms which are familiar enough to the ear but in many cases not very clearly understood even by men with some experience in selling arms and ammunition.

Black Powder—Less powerful than smokeless and producing more smoke. Is loaded by bulk.

Bulk Smokeless Powder—is loaded by bulk.

Caliber of Rifle—The diameter of the bore of a rifle measured by hundredths or thousands of an inch. as .22 caliber, .44 caliber, etc. When two figures are used to describe a metallic cartridge, the first indicates the caliber and the second usually indicates the weight of the powder in grains, .25-20, .32-40, etc.

Center Fire Cartridge—A cartridge with the primer placed in the center of the head of the cartridge.

Chamber—The space at the breech end of the barrel shaped to receive the shell or cartridge.

Chilled Shot—is hardened lead shot.

Choke of Shotgun—The choke of a shotgun means a reduction in diameter of the barrel near the muzzle which concentrates the shot charge reducing the area of spread. Following are the principal types of boring the barrel of the shotgun:
Cylinder bore: the diameter of the barrel is the same all the way through, a perfect cylinder. Modified Choke: the diameter of the barrel is reduced slightly near the muzzle, resulting in more concentration of the shot charge. Full Choke: the diameter is reduced to a greater degree than in modified choke, which gives greater concentration of the shot charge.

Crimp of Shot Shell—The end of the paper tube turned under to hold the load firmly in place.

Dense Smokeless Powder—is loaded by weight.

Drop at Comb and Heel—The distances between the comb and heel of the stock form an imaginary line representing an extension of the line of sight.

Ejector—The part which throws the fired shell out of the gun.

Extractor—The part which withdraws the fired shell from the chamber.

Gauge of Shotgun—The diameter of the inside of the barrel measured by number of lead balls to the pound. For instance, the barrel of a 12 gauge shotgun is equal in diameter to the diameter of a lead ball weighing 12 to the pound. The diameter of a 20 gauge gun is the same as the diameter of a 20-to-the-pound lead ball, etc.

Hammer Gun—Any rifle or shotgun having the hammer outside of the receiver.

Hammerless Gun—Any gun with the hammer within the receiver.

Pistol Grip—The stock shaped to provide a grip for the right hand when the finger is on the trigger.

Primer—A metallic cap placed in the head of the cartridge case containing the priming mixture.

Priming Mixture—Fulminate or similar material which ignites by percussion.

Receiver of Gun—The part which contains the firing mechanism.

Rifling—The spiral grooves inside the barrel of a rifle which gives the bullet a rotary motion stabilizing its flight.

Rim Fire Cartridge—Cartridge having no primer, the priming mixture being placed around the rim of the head of the cartridge, usually of a smaller caliber.

Shot Pattern—The distribution of pellets in a shot charge.

Size of Shot—The sizes of shot are designated by numbers starting with "dust" diameter, 4/100 of an inch. Numbers then run from 12 to 1, the larger numbers being the smaller sizes. No. 12 is 5/100; No. 11, 6/100; No. 1, 16/100. Sizes larger than No. 1 are designated by letters. Buck shot from .24 to .36 inch diameter is measured by numbers 4 to 000, the larger numbers being the smaller sizes.

Smokeless Powder—More powerful and faster burning powder producing a minimum of smoke.

Trajectory—The path of a bullet from muzzle to target, a continuous curve. The midrange height is usually given in figures for trajectory.

Wadding—Felt or fibre disks in a shot shell between powder and shot.

Explanation—If your cost of doing business is 15 per cent of your gross sales and you mark a line at 25 per cent above cost, your net profit is 5 per cent on sales—as shown in the diagram. If your cost of doing business is 29 per cent and you mark a line at 33½ per cent, your loss is 4 per cent on sales—as shown in the diagram. Loss is indicated by —4 on the diagram above.

RULE

Divide the cost (invoice price with freight added) by the figure in the column of "per cent of net profit desired" on the line with your cost of doing business per cent.

EXAMPLE

A washer costs .....	$60.00
Freight .....	1.20
Delivered cost .....	$61.20

You desire a net profit of ..... 5 per cent
Your cost of doing business is ..... 26 per cent

Take the figure in column 5 on line with 26 which is 69 and divide the delivered cost price by this figure to determine the selling price.
69 | 61.20000 : $88.69 selling price

Rules for Taking a Correct Inventory

Accurate margin figure for a business largely dependent on correct inventory

A CORRECT inventory is one of the most important factors in determining the margin of a retail hardware business at the end of the year or fiscal period. And, since the margin figure is a measure of the business' ability to produce income to cover the operating expenses and net profits desired, hardware dealers should strive to secure as accurate an inventory every year as it is physically possible to take.

To secure an accurate inventory strict adherence to simple rules each time one is taken are essential. The following suggestions may serve as a guide in doing this very important task in the retail hardware store.

1. Start recording inventory on the same date each year and take the complete stock in the shortest possible time.

2. Take stock in systematic order to prevent omissions.

3. Always figure inventory at cost or market prices whichever are lower to secure a conservative value which eliminates inventory appreciations and recognizes inventory losses.

4. Add to inventory the cost of merchandise sold from uncounted stock after inventory is started.

5. Deduct from inventory the costs of merchandise added to uncounted stock as a result of shipments received during this period.

6. Take inventory at retail as well

All information on the HARDWARE AGE Inventory Record Sheet is important in checking the progress of this work. Fill out carefully and completely. "A"—Occasionally it is more convenient to show retail prices on a different unit basis than cost prices. Note this on the sheet as indicated to avoid errors in computation. "B"—Mark-downs from cost prices should be noted in the Memo column on the sheet. Total mark-downs should be deducted from the final inventory as shown in the illustration. "C"—Star items to be eliminated from stock and make a separate list of these items after inventory.

as cost prices occasionally to determine difference between average margin used in determining retail prices and the actual margin secured from operations. Difference will be the margin shrinkage.

7. Use HARDWARE AGE Inventory Record Sheets illustrated and described above.

8. Note mark-downs in value of stocks due to obsolescence or damage on inventory sheets.

9. Note "shelf - warmers" and "white elephant" items on inventory sheets and tag merchandise to be eliminated from stock.

10. Hire extra high school students to write for employees of the store to speed up recording of inventory.

11. Count bulky goods in advance of inventory recording sales and additions to stock on cardboard tag in the bins to save time.

Handy Color Harmony Charts

NOTE—In three color combinations, a more pleasing effect will result if two of these are blends and the third a contrasting color. Any three blends of a color may be used together. In the chart "B" means blend. Under "good" it indicates a harmonious combination of related colors. "C," if under "good," indicates a harmonious combination of contrasting colors.

GLOSSARY OF BUILDERS' HARDWARE TERMS

A

ADJUSTABLE KEY—A key for sliding door locks, having a stem or shank adjustable as to its length to adapt the key to doors of various thicknesses.

ANTI-FRICTION AXLE PULLEY—A sash pulley, the axle of which is carried in roller bearing to reduce the friction.

ANTI-FRICTION BOLT—Latch-bolt of a lock, when provided with a device for diminishing the sliding friction of the bolt during the closing of the door.

ARMORED FRONT—A construction in which the regular front of a cylinder lock is covered by an armor plate, secured to the regular front by machine screws to guard the set-screw which checks the cylinder, and also to protect the front of the lock while the door is being painted, or while the lock is being mortised. This latter result is effected by removing the armor plate from the front of the lock during these mechanical processes.

ASTRAGAL FRONT—A lock front having a form coinciding in shape with the edges of a door having an astragal molding.

ASYLUM LOCK—One for use on doors of insane asylums and especially protected against tampering.

AXLE PULLEY—Synonymous with Frame Pulley.

B

BACK PULLEY—Synonymous with Shutter Flap.

BACK PLATE—A plate on the inside of a door and surrounding the orifice leading from a letter drop or plate on front of door.

BACKSET (of a lock)—The offset or horizontal distance from the front of a lock to the center line of its knob or key-hole.

BALL-BEARING BUTT—One having a roller or ball bearing to reduce the friction.

BARN DOOR HANGER—A sheave mounted in a frame or attachment to the bottom of a sliding barn door, traveling on an overhead rail and carrying the door.

BARN DOOR LATCH—A heavy Thumb Latch.

BARN DOOR PULL—A large Cupped Pull for heavy doors.

BARN DOOR ROLLER—A sheave mounted in a frame for attachment to the bottom of a sliding barn door, traveling on a rail laid in the floor, and carrying the door.

BARN DOOR STAY—A small roller, usually carried on a spike or screw, for guiding a sliding barn door.

BARREL BOLT—A cylindrical bolt mounted on a plate having a case projecting from its surface to contain and guide the bolt.

BARREL KEY—Synonymous with Pipe Key.

BAR HANDLE—A door handle consisting of a bar, usually horizontal, supported by one or more projecting brackets.

BELL CRANK—A bent arm, usually a right angle, turning on a pivot attached to a plate, used for altering the direction of bell wires.

BELL LEVER—See Lever Bell Pull.

BELL PULL—A knob, with plate, arranged to pull out longitudinally against the resistance of a spring, its motion being transmitted through wires to a bell.

BEVEL OF LOCK—A term used to indicate the direction in which the bevel of the latch bolt is inclined; "regular bevel" commonly indicating a lock for use on a door opening in, and "reverse bevel" one for a door opening out.

BEVEL OF LOCK FRONT—The angle of the front of a mortise lock when inclined at other than a right angle to the case, to conform to the angle of the edge of the door.

BEVEL OF DOOR—The angle of front edge of door. Regular bevel is usually  $\frac{1}{8}$  inch to 2 inches.

BIT (of a key)—A projecting blade which engages with and actuates either or both the bolt and tumblers of a lock. Synonymous with Wing.

BIT-KEY LOCK—One operated by a key having a wing bit.

BITTING—A cut, or indentation, on that part of a key which acts upon and sets the tumblers.

BOLT—A bar or barrier arranged to secure a door or other moving part, and to prevent its opening.

BOOKCASE BOLT—One which automatically fastens or releases one-half of a bookcase door when the other half of the door is closed or opened.

BOSTON SASH FAST—A type of Sash Fast in which the rotating locking bar is held in the locked position by a trigger or thumb-piece, pressure on which permits the bar automatically to unlock.

BOTTOM BOLT—One for use on the bottom of a door and having frictional resistance whereby the bolt is prevented from falling into the locked position unless intentionally moved.

BOX OR SQUARE BOLT—A square or flat bolt mounted on a plate having a case projecting from its surface to contain and guide the bolt.

BOX STRIKE—One in which the aperture to receive the bolt is enclosed or boxed to prevent access from the rear.

BRACKET BEARING—A knob-thimble or socket which, projecting like a bracket, supports the knob close to its head instead of at the end of the knob shank.

BUILDERS' LOCK—One for use in house or building construction.

BUTT (An abbreviation of the term Butt Hinge)—A hinge intended for application to the butt or edge of a door, in contradistinction to a flat or strap hinge for application to the surface of the door.
